FROM THE SECRETARIAT

Dear Friends

The Australian Catholic Social Justice Council is now preparing for the launch of the Australia Catholic Bishops' 2007 Social Justice Sunday Statement in September. In this year's Statement, Who Is My Neighbour? Australia's role as a global citizen, the Bishops reflect on our engagement as Christians and Australian citizens on issues of social justice around the world.

We wish to draw your attention to this event and some associated resources that will be available for order and/or downloading from the ACSJC website.

Social Justice Sunday will be celebrated on 30 September. The Statement will be launched in the week prior to Social Justice Sunday. Hard copies of the Statement can be ordered through the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council.

Order forms are available on the ACSJC website.

Who is my Neighbour?

Australia and Australians have a responsibility to be good global citizens: we have responsibilities beyond our national borders. This year's Social Justice Sunday Statement is a call for us Australians to act more in the interests of our neighbours who do not share our prosperity and security – an invitation to reconsider the way we live and act as individuals and as a nation.

Australians, especially when there is an emergency, respond with great generosity to those in need. Almost two million Australians donate time or money each year to an overseas aid or development organisation. Following the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami, Australians donated more than $870 million to aid and development work. However, it is easy to forget that in a sense there is a permanent emergency – the constant deaths from war, famine and disease all over the world.

One response is to understand that we are interdependent – that we depend on the work and living conditions of those less fortunate than we are – and that we need to act in solidarity with those people. This is especially the case now that globalisation is so significant in today's world. We depend on the manufacturing and agriculture of countries all over the world for our prosperity. In some ways, this has brought great benefit, but we must not forget the drawbacks of globalisation and must work to remedy its injustices.

The 2007 Social Justice Sunday Statement focuses on five challenges that confront Australians as global citizens. They are:

- foreign aid and development assistance
- military alliances and interventions
- the United Nations and international financial institutions
- climate change and energy policy
- border protection and refugees.

The Statement ends with some suggestions for individuals or parishes to become more involved in initiatives to increase global solidarity and action.

To Order

Parishes, schools and groups can order printed copies (minimum of 10) from the ACSJC. Order form and cost details can be found on the ACSJC website: <http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>

Social Justice Sunday - Complementary Resources

The ACSJC produces a range of complementary resources to assist parish communities, schools and social justice groups to celebrate Social Justice Sunday.

The following resources will soon be available on the ACSJC website (www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au) and can be downloaded free of charge:

- Social Justice Sunday Statement Summary
- Social Justice Sunday Liturgy Notes

- Teachers' Notes

Resources that are very useful in parishes and schools are the Social Justice Sunday Prayer Card and “Ten Steps” leaflet. These can be ordered from the ACSJC Secretariat on (02) 9956 5811.

Any assistance you can give in spreading the word about Social Justice Sunday would be greatly appreciated.

CURRENT ISSUES/RESOURCES

2007 ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER SUNDAY

The National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Catholics Council has released liturgical resources for the celebration of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Sunday on JULY 1 2007. The theme is “Love one another as I love you”.

Archbishop Barry Hickey, Chairman of the Bishops Committee for Relations with Aborigines and Torres Strait Islanders says, “I urge Parishes to make use of this material in their Sunday Masses, and to involve Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in the Celebrations. There may be such people in your area who would be happy to speak about Indigenous issues, particularly those relating to the faith and the Church. May this commemoration help our Catholic communities grow in awareness of the unity in love that should exist among all the sons and daughters of God.”

Mrs Elsie Heiss, NATSICC Chairperson, says, “The Aboriginal people were given the right to vote in 1967 after the overwhelming vote of ‘Yes’ in the Referendum. May marks the 40th Anniversary of the Referendum and is a time to reflect on the steps ahead of Aboriginal people. May we walk gently and be guided by our conscience.” (To download this resource, visit: <http://www.natsicc.org.au/liturgy.htm>)

RESPONSE TO GOVT PLANS TO ADDRESS CHILD ABUSE

In an interview with The Catholic Weekly, The Chairman of the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council, Bishop Christopher Saunders, said he welcomed and supported decisive action to protect children in Indigenous communities in the Northern Territory and throughout the country.

“Child abuse in any Australian community needs to be addressed properly. This involves not only intervention, but also prevention strategies.

“Throughout Australia there was shock expressed at media revelations regarding the recent report

Little Children are Sacred,” Bishop Saunders said. “We have no right to be surprised. We should remember that this problem has been on the public agenda and known about for decades.

“Decisive action needs to be long-term, not merely short-term. We must not only consider what is done but how it is done. More is needed than a law and order response. Importantly, wherever possible the communities themselves must be involved in the solutions which will necessarily include the supply of a whole range of social services and resources. The Church welcomes any increase in support to address this issue and emphasises that the way forward needs to be in partnership with Indigenous communities. In this context any legislation regarding the policy proposals that is forthcoming needs to be scrutinised closely in parliament.

“Despite any rhetoric to the contrary, the Northern Territory Government, recognised leaders in the Aboriginal community and Church and community organisations working with the communities have a key role to play in any effective process designed to deal with the issues outlined in this report. This is evidenced by their contribution to the report itself. They have on-the-ground knowledge and are the people who have established long-standing relationships with the communities.

“It is worth noting that sensationalised reporting of the abuse in these communities will not do nearly as much to address the issue as will determination, hard work and the application of adequate resources”, Bishop Saunders said. (refer: <http://www.catholicweekly.com.au/>)

Questioning whether Government authorities understand the background of Aboriginal communities, Darwin's Bishop Ted Collins has warned against adopting a “bullyboy” approach and called for consultation with Indigenous people. “They need to work in partnership with Indigenous people in their local communities,” he said.

“It can easily happen with Aboriginal people, many of whom already feel powerless end up feeling further disempowered.

“Do they know the background of the Aboriginal people sufficiently, are they going to rush in and try to be sort of bullyboys or something like that, or are they going to treasure the culture of Aboriginal people? I think that is really important,” he said. (refer: <http://www.cathnews.com/news/706/123.php>)

OPEN LETTER TO THE HON. MAL BROUGH MP

An open letter organised by the Australian Council of Social Service has been sent to the Minister for Families, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs welcoming the apparent commitment of the Federal Government to tackling violence and abuse in certain Indigenous communities but warning against an over-reliance on top-down and punitive measures and without sufficient additional resources to address the issues.

The signatories offer support to Indigenous communities and the Government in: developing programs that will strengthen families and communities to empower them to confront the problems they face; consulting adequately with the communities and NT Government, and community service, health and education providers; developing a long term plan to address and resolve the causes of child abuse including joblessness, poor housing, education and commit the necessary resources to this. (The open letter can be accessed at:

REPORT, "LITTLE CHILDREN ARE SACRED"

The Northern Territory Government's Board of Inquiry into the Protection of Aboriginal Children from Sexual Abuse was established on 8 August 2006 and was co-chaired by Ms Patricia Anderson and Rex Wild QC. The purpose of the Inquiry was to find better ways to protect Aboriginal children from sexual abuse. The Report "Little Children are Sacred" was released on 15 June 2007. The report can be downloaded from: <http://www.nt.gov.au/dcm/inquirysaac>

INDIGENOUS JUSTICE COMMISSIONER'S REPORT

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Social Justice Commissioner Tom Calma released his annual Social Justice Report in mid-June. He called on the Federal Government to address serious flaws in their Indigenous affairs programs and services.

"It is clear to me that there are serious problems with the federal Government's new whole-of-government arrangements in Indigenous affairs. The government has promised much in the way of accountability and progress on Indigenous issues, but has little to show for this over the three years since it abolished ATSIC," Commissioner Calma said.

"Current federal Government policy treats Indigenous people as 'problems to be solved' rather than as active partners in creating a positive life vision for our communities," Mr Calma said.

"The federal Government has consistently emphasised that engagement with Indigenous peoples is a central requirement for the new arrangements to work. But in practice, the new arrangements are a top-down imposition – with policy set centrally and unilaterally by government and then applied to Indigenous peoples," Mr Calma said.

"This lack of effective participation of Indigenous peoples in the new arrangements is a fundamental flaw in the federal Government's approach to Indigenous affairs and will continue to undermine the ability of government to meet its commitments," he said.

REPORT – "ONE PEOPLE, ONE PLACE, ONE FUTURE – BREAKING THE SILENCE"

The Brisbane Archdiocesan Journey of Healing and Reconciliation working group has produced a Reconciliation Kit for use in churches, schools and community groups. The resource includes background information, homily notes, prayer and liturgy resources, key issues on reconciliation, timelines, personal accounts and an acknowledgement protocol. In his foreword to the Kit, Bishop Joseph Oudeman says, "Having recommitted ourselves to the process of reconciliation in our land and having reflected on what the [2006] Social Justice Statement identified as the key challenges of John Paul II's [1986] message, it is important that we make every effort to take action to advance the cause of reconciliation during the coming year.” The Reconciliation Kit can be downloaded at: <http://www.uq.net.au/cjpc/2007kitmay.pdf>

CAMPAIGN – "MAKE INDIGENOUS POVERTY HISTORY"

The Make Indigenous Poverty History Campaign continues in 2007 with 40 Days of Action for 40 Years of Inaction. To see how you can get involved in this campaign of the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Ecumenical Commission and to obtain a wide range of resources go to <http://www.ncca.org.au/natsiec/indigenouspoverty>

HREOC PUBLICATION – "BRINGING THEM HOME"

As part of the 10th anniversary of the tabling of the "Bringing Them Home" report on May 26, the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission is producing a magazine style publication of stories, poems and photographs from Indigenous people across Australia who were removed from their families. HREOC is interested in receiving written and artistic submissions from Indigenous people that outline the experiences of people removed from their families. For more information visit: <http://www.humanrights.gov.au/bth/>

DARFUR AUSTRALIA NETWORK - REMEMBERING THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE

On 17th October 2007, The Darfur Australia Network (DAN) will remember the forgotten people of Darfur. Three million knotted squares of material, representing the three million displaced by this crisis, will be incorporated into an art installation. The colourful material was chosen as it symbolises the colourful clothes of Darfuri women. We hope this raises awareness about the scale of the crisis in Darfur, raises funds to help support the victims and advocates to the Australian government to help protect those displaced by the war in Darfur. For more information on how you, your school, parish, workplace or group can be involved visit <http://www.darfuraustralia.org/action/forgotten> DAN have also set up a petition for this project which is available online at <http://www.darfuraustralia.org/action/petition> . You can also find out more about the activities of DAN in Sydney and Melbourne by visiting their website www.darfuraustralia.org.au.

HREOC PROGRAM – "COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS FOR HUMAN RIGHTS"

The Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission is taking a creative, whole-of-community approach to target a range of contemporary problems facing Australian Muslim communities under a new program titled Community Partnerships for Human Rights.

Race Discrimination Commissioner Tom Calma, says the program's goal is to increase social cohesion and counteract extreme discriminatory views and intolerance at the local and broader community level. "This will be achieved through human rights education and by working with groups at risk of being marginalised including young Muslim Australians," he said. The new program and projects are a consequence of increased funding to HREOC by the Australian Government of $4.4 million over four years under the COAG National Action Plan to Build on Social Cohesion, Harmony and Security. NATIONAL INITIATIVE – AUSTRALIA FAIR

In the lead-up to Australia Day 2007, a new national initiative from the Australian Council Of Social Service has highlighted the overwhelming support by Australians of ‘a fair go for all’ and called on Australians to encourage decision makers to make this a reality. Australia Fair provides the tools to enable people to get involved in creating a fair go for all Australians. Typing in a postcode on the site takes individuals to links to email their local Member of Parliament, write to their local newspaper editor, start or join a local discussion group or call local talkback radio stations. 2007 SOCIAL JUSTICE SUNDAY STATEMENT – ORDER NOW!

This year’s Australian Catholic Bishops Conference Social Justice Sunday Statement is entitled “Who is my Neighbour? Australia’s role as a global citizen”. The ACSJC is now taking orders for the Statement. An order form is available on the ACSJC website:

SERIES PAPER: TO EACH AS ANY HAVE NEED: JUSTICE AND HEALTHCARE

Sr Elizabeth Hepburn IBVM is the author of Catholic Social Justice Series Paper No.59. A constant theme in Catholic teaching is the sanctity of human life. Underpinning that sanctity is the concept of the ‘seamless web’: life that is sacred from conception to grave, for poor or rich, neighbour or foreigner. Someone who is denied health care may be denied life itself. Dr Elizabeth Hepburn, a prominent Australian ethicist and Loreto sister, addresses these issues in this paper and brings long and profound experience to the task. As Dr Hepburn points out, the idea that we have a duty to care for the sick and frail is one that goes back to the roots of Judaic tradition and to the earliest Christian communities. Illness, as she says, disempowers people and prevents them from being full members of society; effective health care restores them to the wholeness of human life.

One of the intolerable aspects of health care in today’s world is the fact that privileged sections of society and regions of the globe have access to decent and effective treatment, while the underprivileged do not. Even in a rich country like Australia, our Indigenous sisters and brothers have a life expectancy far shorter than that of the community as a whole, and they are subject to far greater incidence of cardiac, renal and other diseases. Diseases that we can treat routinely are common causes of death in many countries. ($6.60 a copy, plus postage – postage rates listed below)

PASTORAL LETTER – FEAST OF ST JOSEPH THE WORKER 2007

The Pastoral Letter for the Feast of St Joseph the Worker, entitled, “Keeping Time – Australian families and the culture of overwork”, considers the pressures experienced by a growing number of workers trying to juggle the demands of the jobs with the needs of their families. Available for download in regular and ‘three-column’ versions at: <http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>

DISCUSSION GUIDE – WORLD DAY OF PEACE MESSAGE 2007

On 1 January, the Holy Father delivered his World Day of Peace message. The theme of his message is The Human Person, The Heart of Peace. The ACSJC discussion guide consists of a brief overview of the Pope’s message, some points for reflection and prayer. A helpful resource for group and classroom discussion. SERIES PAPER: CHOICE FOR WHOM? A DISCUSSION OF THE 2005 INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS LAWS

Catholic Social Justice Series No 58. At a time when Australia’s industrial relations laws are undergoing radical change, Dr Tim Battin offers an analysis of the theory underpinning the 2005 industrial relations legislation, and measures that rationale against the precepts of Catholic social teaching. ($6.60 a copy, plus postage – postage rates listed below)

($6.60 a copy, plus postage. Postage rates for Catholic Social Justice Series Papers: 1 copy $1; 2-3 copies $1.45; 4-5 copies $2.45)
