FROM THE SECRETARIAT

Dear Friends,

This is the 100th issue of the ACSJC Monthly Briefing!

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for receiving this Briefing over the years - for your keen interest in issues of social justice and for your commitment to advocacy and good works for justice, development, and peace.

In April 2000, the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council issued the first Monthly Briefing. Prior to that the Council issued 'Network Notes' to its Diocesan Contacts around Australia. It was in 1999 that the Council decided that this newsletter should also be provided to social justice groups and interested individuals beyond this network. And it has evolved since then.

The aim of the Monthly Briefing has always been to provide updates on action for social justice, notice of coming events, new resources and ideas for action. It aims to encourage information sharing between diocesan and national levels and among broader social justice groups of the Church and society.

I think of the range of issues and momentous world events that have been addressed in these Briefings since April in 2000. The Great Jubilee and the expectation of a new millennium for overcoming violence, the Decade for a Culture of Peace, and the Millennium Development Goals. The 9/11 terrorist attack, the military invasions and undermining of civil and political rights in the so-called 'war on terror'. The 'Tampa' incident and Australia's treatment of asylum seekers under the 'Pacific Solution'. The hard slog for Reconciliation, the NT Intervention and Prime Minister Rudd's National Apology to the Stolen Generations and all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. The participation of women in the Catholic Church in Australia. The call for ecological conversion. Issues of affluence and poverty and the impact of tax reforms, social security policy and unjust workplace legislation.

These are just some of the issues. They are like signposts that highlight the commitment of individuals and agencies working for justice and for the restoration of the human dignity of those who are most vulnerable or dispossessed in Australia and around the world.

Fundamentally, the ACSJC Monthly Briefing is a resource that seeks to enable people to take up issues of justice.

I am very grateful for all those people and organisations who send information about resources and forthcoming events for inclusion in the Briefing. I would welcome your support in further promoting the Briefing among your networks and institutions.

Let me recall the words of Sandie Cornish, when she issued the first Briefing in April 2000:

“As we enter the 21st century (or not yet, depending on how you count it!) we are getting a bit more techno savvy. Our website www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au is quickly taking shape and our old paper, monthly Network Notes to Diocesan Contacts, has morphed into an email bulletin ... Please drop us an email with news of your activities for inclusion in the bulletin. There’s nothing like concrete local action to inspire others!”

People can subscribe to this free Briefing by entering their email details in the box provided on the top left-hand side of the ACSJC’s homepage (refer: <http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>)

As we move into Holy Week, the members and staff of the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council wish you the joy of Easter, the hope of the risen Lord and a renewed commitment to working with one another for justice.

EUREKA STREET REFLECTS ON ISSUES OF THE DAY

The Australian Jesuits have made Eureka Street a free online publication, at <http://eurekastreet.com.au>. Each weekday, they publish thought-provoking articles on social justice, theology, politics and the arts. Eureka Street aims to encourage a reflective and compassionate view of the issues of the day that is inspired by a Catholic moral perspective. There are regular contributions from Frank Brennan SJ and John Warhurst, as well as occasional articles from a wide range of writers including Tim Battin and Brian McCoy SJ. The best way to access the articles is to take a free subscription to the daily or weekly email newsletter. Just send an email to eureka@eurekastreet.com.au with ‘subscribe daily’ or ‘subscribe weekly’ in the subject line.

REFUGEE WEEK GRANTS (NSW)

Refugee Week will take place this year from 14 - 20 June. To encourage community groups and organisations to hold events and functions, the Refugee Council of Australia and the NSW Refugee Week Committee will be offering a limited number of small grants of $250 and $500 each - made possible through the generous support of the NSW Community Relations Commission. The grants are designed to enable grass-roots community participation in events that include refugee communities. Events should reflect this year’s theme, ‘Freedom from Fear’. The aim is to encourage Australians to think about the reasons refugees flee their homes, the fear they might experience at arriving in a new land, and the importance of providing safety and lasting security to people who have lost everything. To find out more or to apply for a grant, please visit <http://www.refugeecouncil.org.au/newsevents/refugeeweek.html> and scroll down to ‘Applying for a NSW small grant for your event’.

LAUNCH OF NGO GUIDELINES RE PEOPLE TRAFFICKING

In early March, Catherine Branson QC, President of the Australian Human Rights Commission, and Jennifer Burn, Director of the NGO Anti-Slavery Project, launched Guidelines for NGOs assisting victims of people trafficking deal with and recover from the trauma. The practical resource covers key issues including: gaining informed consent from a victim before taking action on their case; protecting the privacy of victims and treating their cases confidentially; the importance of providing culturally appropriate services; and the requirement that service providers must also meet professional/occupational standards and codes of conduct. The Guidelines were developed by a Working Group, including the religious orders, established at the first meeting of the National Roundtable on People Trafficking in June 2008. They can be accessed at <http://www.ag.gov.au/peopletrafficking>

The petition supporting the nomination of Timor-Leste will be presented to Parliament towards the end of the year. RECONCILIATION AUSTRALIA - 'CHALLENGING STEREOTYPES'

A new advertising campaign challenges Australians to rethink negative stereotypes of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. Developed as a community service announcement, the Reconciliation Australia campaign is informed by the Australian Reconciliation Barometer—groundbreaking research that explores our attitudes to each other as Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians. Findings of the research show: there are equally low levels of trust between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians; there is low recognition of Indigenous achievement outside of high profile successes in sport and the arts; and Australians overall rate themselves ahead of Indigenous people in possessing positive qualities like a sense of humour and being welcoming and hard working. The advertising uses real people with headlines that confront stereotypes around substance abuse, unemployment, child care, professional achievement, who is Aboriginal and crime. For more information visit: <http://www.reconciliation.org.au>

AHRC PUBLICATIONS

Three releases from the Australian Human Rights Commission are now online. The first is about the Australian Human Rights Commission's concern with the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Amendment (Search Powers) Bill 2009 (NSW). The Bill, if enacted, would significantly extend the power of police to conduct covert searches. (refer: http://www.humanrights.gov.au/legal/submissions/2009/20090318_covert_search.html)

The second is a Report to Parliament entitled Complaints by immigration detainees against the Commonwealth of Australia (Department of Immigration and Citizenship, formerly the Department of Immigration and Multicultural and Indigenous Affairs) and GSL (Australia) Pty Ltd. (refer: http://www.humanrights.gov.au/legal/HREOCA_reports/hrc_report_40.html)

Third is a discussion paper by National Race Discrimination Commissioner Tom Calma, and immediate past Chair of the Federation of African Communities Council, Abeselom Nega, which aims at identifying the major issues faced by African Australians. (refer: <http://www.humanrights.gov.au/africanaus/>)

NEW DVD - JOINING HANDS

Students and staff from Aranmore Catholic College in Perth have been involved in the development of a resource designed to give African students of refugee background a voice in their educational experience in Australia. Produced by the Association for Services to Torture and Trauma Survivors (ASeTTS), the DVD is entitled Joining Hands - Connecting African students, their families and WA secondary education. It will assist schools to meet the specialised education and personal support needs of this group of students and highlights also the great strengths of these young people. For further information about this project and to obtain a copy of the DVD, call ASeTTS on (08) 9227 2700.

AUSTRALIA INSTITUTE PAPERS

The recently released Australia Institute Report The great superannuation tax concession report, highlights that current superannuation tax concessions flow overwhelmingly to those who are well off, with the top five percent of individuals accounting for 37 per cent of concessional contributions.

Another paper, Increasing the Newstart Allowance, calls for increases to allowance rates as a necessary part of equitable fiscal stimulus and shows how the well off are set to benefit from foreshadowed tax cuts in July 2009 and July 2010 - with modest cuts going to those on incomes higher than $34,000 per annum and greater cuts going to those on incomes over $80,000 per annum.

HUMAN RIGHTS CONSULTATIONS

A National Human Rights Consultation was announced by the Attorney-General Robert McClelland on Human Rights Day (10 December 2008). The Consultation is seeking the community's views on human rights in Australia. The Committee, headed by Fr Frank Brennan, is running community consultations and seeking views (including written submissions) around the following questions:

1. Which human rights and responsibilities should be protected and promoted?
2. Are these human rights currently sufficiently protected and promoted?
3. How could Australia better protect and promote human rights? For further information, visit <http://www.humanrightsconsultation.gov.au/>

HUMAN RIGHTS HANDBOOK

The Civil Society Unit of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights has released a handbook: Working with the United Nations Human Rights Programme: A Handbook for Civil Society. It is a user-friendly and authoritative publication on United Nations human rights bodies and mechanisms, explaining how they work and exploring the many important ways that civil society actors including NGOs can contribute to their work. It can be accessed at: <http://www.ohchr.org/EN/AboutUs/Pages/NgoHandbook.aspx>

SERIES PAPER - 'A GOD MERCIFUL AND GRACIOUS'

In Catholic Social Justice Series No.64, Old Testament scholar Mark O'Brien invites readers to consider the roots of our modern concepts of justice and mercy. The Old Testament's account of justice is often regarded as full of God's anger and vengeance. Fr O'Brien considers the challenges and obligations faced at the time: the challenge to establish a coherent law and theology, the constant threat of violence from neighbouring superpowers, God's covenant with his people, rivals to the covenant, and the prophetic contribution reintegrating justice and mercy into the life of the community. ($6.60 a copy, plus postage - postage rates listed below)

3 APRIL. DAY OF PRAYER FOR SRI LANKA (NATIONAL). The Edmund Rice Centre would like to draw your attention to an important and urgent human rights issue. The government of Sri Lanka has recently proposed passing an "Anti-Conversion Bill" with the proposed aim of preventing forced conversion of citizens from one religion to another. However, the UN Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Religion or Belief has noted that such a law did not seem to be necessary in that country, and may in be used to impact negatively upon the freedoms of religion, expression and association. It could also be used to persecute minority groups. Many other human rights activists have come out with similar concerns. The Catholic Bishops Conference of Sri Lanka has called for a national day of prayer, fasting and abstinence on April 3rd, hoping that such a day would bring peace and reconciliation. 17 MAY. JUBILEE SUNDAY: DIGGING TO THE ROOTS OF POVERTY (NATIONAL). The first question a gardener asks when a tree looks unhealthy is - what about the roots? Too often efforts to eradicate poverty focus only on rushing aid to the poor, responding to the visual effects of poverty, but ignoring the deeper underlying problems. If we're serious about eliminating poverty, we must look at its roots. More than one-third of people in our world have to build their lives earning less than US$2 per day, and wealth is becoming increasingly concentrated in the hands of a few. Growing income disparity is a sign to us that there is something terribly wrong with the way the global financial system is doing business. When poverty becomes so entrenched, we need to dig to find the answers. How can a productive healthy country be built upon a mountain of debt?

See - Learn more about the perpetual cycle of debt trapping millions of poor people today www.jubileeaustralia.org

Judge - Reflect on this situation in the light of scripture and Church social teaching.

Act - Don't wait any longer. Put your faith into action this year. Urge your parish to get involved in Jubilee Sunday. Liturgy Resources are available at www.jubileeaustralia.org (in the near future), or from Anne Lanyon, Columban Mission Institute, (02) 9352 8021 or email annelanyon.cmi@columban.org.au).
